

HENRY GEORGE'S WIFE

Though Henry George has acquired such large celebrity his wife's name has hardly been mentioned in the newspapers that speak of him so often and so much. She is a thorough home body, devoted to her husband and their four children. She is one of the small, plump, cherrie bodied that never get down hearted, and people who have known them for a long time say that but for her unflagging devotion and enthusiastic belief in him, Mr. George would never have been able to come triumphantly through the long period of straitened means and hard work which preceded his sudden success.—Sentinel.

The writer had the pleasure of knowing both Henry George and his wife years ago in San Francisco, when George knew more of Poverty than of Progress. George had the bad luck of a man who was considerably misunderstood and a good deal unappreciated. At times it was rather hard for the George family to get along and the author met with trials which would have cast down any man who did not have a hopeful, ambitious energetic wife to pilot him through the storm. Mrs. George was such a woman and knowing her husband as no one else knew him she had a faith in his future that never faltered.

In order to get Poverty and Progress printed he had to bring the stereotype plates to the book publishers. Mr. George helped set the type. The booksellers took the plates and printed the book with a sort of feeling that it would be a failure but they wouldn't lose much. Now the book has become a standard of its class and has been translated in over a dozen languages.

George is now a wealthy man, his writings bringing him a large income. Since the appearance of his first book a thousand men have tried to break down his logic, and failed. Thousands of small newspapers have ridiculed it, but have not stopped its sales and still the theories advanced by it gather strength and will be a source of discussion in the world long after both Henry George and his wife are dead and buried.

Commendable Action.

The action of the Grand Lodge of New York in suspending the warrant of Prudence Lodge for admitting the notorious Tom Gould into its membership, will meet with popular approval. Men who enter the Masonic ranks are supposed to be carefully selected and it behooves the order to carefully guard its reputation. The Lodge passes out of existence as a punishment for its un-Masonic conduct.

—Many people yet remember the visit of Louis Kossuth to this country thirty-six years ago, of the marvelous ability he displayed in speaking day after day and making a new speech every time. To such people a few lines from a letter written by him recently, will have a pathetic interest, because they picture that a few years ago was so stately a statue of manhood, as the same statue is now, just as it is on the point of crumbling to dust. He says: "The burden of more than eighty four years weighs down my infirm shoulders. Under this weight the body is deadened, the soul grows blunted, life becomes a state of mere barren vegetation. Man feels then like some time-worn moldering ruin, which no longer as-orts with the world of the living."

—A dispatch from Europe announces that Boss Buckley is quite likely to recover his sight, which he lost some seventeen years ago. A recovery of sight will be a sad calamity to the poor fellow. When he is able to see and looks upon the scurvy crew that he has handled for the past few years he will call up the gods to again strike him with blindness, actual and total.

—Milk bars, where pure iced milk is sold, are having a neck and neck race with the ale houses in England, and the idea has just been adopted in some of the eastern cities of this country. Good milk, if cold, quenches the thirst as quickly as malt liquor.—Free Press.

ROYAL GEORGE, Jr.

WILL STAND FOR THE SEASON

—AT—

BENTON'S LIVERY STABLES,
CARSON CITY.

This horse is a chestnut, 15½ hands high, weighs 1,100 in road condition, was sired by Royal George, he by Warrior, son of Tippoo, dam by Harris' Hambletonian; Tippoo by Ogden's Messenger; Ogden's Messenger by imported Messenger. Harris' Hambletonian was sired by Bishop's Hambletonian, dam, Munson mare, by imported Messenger. Bishop's Hambletonian was sired by imported Messenger, dam, Pheasant, by imported Shark. The dam of ROYAL GEORGE JUNIOR, was "Negro Wench," sired by Jack Hawkins, he by Boston, dam, the celebrated running mare, Walnut-bark.

It is now conceded that if there is ever a horse that will trot in two minutes, it will be one that has the blood of these two great strains, Boston and Messenger.

Anyone having doubts of the breeding of Royal George, Junior, can have his record proven by calling on his owner,
